TASK 1 – BAD SERVICE

Last night you went to a restaurant to celebrate your birthday with your friends. The service was awful and the food was a disaster. You complained to the manager, but he asked you to put it in writing.

Write a letter of complaint in 120-150 words to the manager of the restaurant, Mr Davies, in which you

- explain what the problem with the quality of food was;
- describe how poor the service was (manner and speed of the staff);
- ask for compensation.

Begin your letter like this:

Dear Mr Davies,

TASK 2

On <http://www.discussanything.com/forums> you have recently found some posts on talent shows.

I feel that talent shows are more about hype and ads than bringing real talent into the limelight. There is always more of the drama between the contestants, fights between the judges rather than focussing on the talent. Most of the time, voting is manipulated, candidates from good background will get their friends and parents to vote for them hundreds of times. rebackgrow2 days ago

Talent shows encourage people of all ages to compete against their peers and show their natural talents. The competitiveness that each person has inside him/herself is brought out and people learn how to work hard to accomplish what they want (winning the talent show). And then, once they have realized how much they can accomplish when they work hard, they can use this new-found realization in day-to-day life and have much better lives. Anonym 3 days ago

Join the debate and share your opinion in 200-250 words. Include the following points:

- 1) what you think of talent shows
- 2) how popular these TV programmes are in Hungary
- 3) how success or failure may influence a young contestant's future
- 4) why or why not you would enter a talent show.
